COLONEL ASTOR STILL MISSING

(Associated Press Cable.)

NEW YORK, N. Y., Apr. 17.—All hope that Colonel John Jacob Astor, who, with his bride of a little more than a year, was on board the wrecked steamer Titanic, had been picked up by the Carpathia, disappeared to-night, when a wireless message from that ship announced that he is not on board.

Another wireless message from the Carpathia, which is due in this port tonight, announced the safety of Dr. Washington Dodge of San Francisco, believed for a time to have been among the victims of the disaster. The doctor wireless here this afternoon and asked that his message be forwarded to his friends in San Francisco. His family was also saved.

Among the prominent men who are believed to have gone down with the Titanic is William T. Stead, journalist and author.

COMMITTEE SUICIDE BY

LEAPING FROM AEROPlane
VERSAILLES, Fr., Apr. 17.—John Vorrept inaugurated a novel and sensational form of suicide here today, when he leaped from his aeroplane while in full flight, eight hundred feet above the earth, and plunged to his death while hundreds of spectators, attracted by his daring aerial maneuvers, witnessed his fall.

Vorrept, according to his friends, was distracted by a recent quarrel with his fiancée. The cause of the lovers' quarrel is not known, but it is believed that Vorrept, who has vainly attempted to regain the favor of his angry fiancée, finally despaired and deliberately planned a death which he as novel in the annals of aeronautics as in that of suicide.

RABID MEXICO IS

BREEDING TROUBLE
MEXICO CITY, Mex., Apr. 17.—The question of the right of the United States to demand protection for Americans residing in Mexico came to a critical head today, when the Mexican government officially announced that it did not recognize the right of Washington to instruct the executive and diplomatic representative of the Mexican republic in that nation's duties, nor to dictate its policy in the observance of international law.

This attitude is regarded here as a direct defiance, and the reply from Washington is awaited with the keenest anticipation. It is generally believed that the United States government cannot regard this as anything but an insult added to injury and that it will provoke immediate interference in the turbulent affairs of the republic.

SOUTHERN FLOODS

AGAIN THREATENING
VICKSBURG, Miss., Apr. 17.—Reports from all sections of the South affected by the floods, which have been destroying millions of dollars' worth of property in the Mississippi valley, indicate that the present appalling conditions are rapidly growing worse, and that the waters of the Mississippi and tributary streams are still rising and spreading over vast areas in sections where the protecting levees have been undermined.

OUT FOR UNDERWOOD.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Apr. 17.—Alabama's forty delegates to the Democratic national convention, which will be held in Baltimore, are pledged to support Oscar Underwood of Montgomery for the Democratic nomination for the presidency as long as he is a candidate.

TAFT ASKS AID.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Apr. 17.—Prompted by the reports of extreme destitution and suffering in the flood districts of the South and Middle West, President Taft has appealed to the Red Cross Society to help in the alleviation of the present conditions and the assistance of the flood victims.

HELD FOR MURDER.

STOCKTON, Cal., Apr. 17.—William Dorr was arrested today charged with murder.

CASCARET'S CLEANSE
LIVER AND BOWELS

No Biliousness, Headache, Sick, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Coated Tongue or Constipation.

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give you a thorough cleansing inside and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

The Talbott bill, which gives to midshipmen the rank of ensign in the navy immediately upon their graduation from Annapolis, was passed by the House.

SHE DID HER DUTY

MARIA B. SHIRLEY

There's a great deal said against old maids, and some old maids object to the title as a term of contempt. They prefer to be called maiden ladies. I don't. I'm an old maid and proud of it. I don't bother about my age neither. I'm fifty, and if any one goes sayehen' round to find out how old I am I tell 'em. I say I'm half a century old.

I haven't any use for those persons who are merely mouthed about speakin' right out when there's anything disagreeable to be said. If my friend needs information I'm a-goin' to give it to her or him, whichever it is. I don't propose to let a friend suffer from wantin' to know somethin' that nobody has the courage to tell 'em. It's risky, I admit. But what's the credit o' doin' somethin' that anybody is willin' to do? I heard Mame Perkins' son-in-law roarin' her awful. I went to her and said: "Mama, I've got somethin' to tell you you'd ought to know." Then I told her. She thanked me very much. Neither her son-in-law nor her daughter has spoken to me from that day to this. But I done my duty.

One day I was ridin' in a railroad train—parlor car. I always use parlor cars. They're not so dirty, and I hate dirt as I hate poison. Just out of the city the train stopped at a suburban town and a fine lookin' elderly gentleman got in with a young girl not more than nineteen. They were evidently just married, for there was a wedding party on the platform to see 'em off. They threw rice at 'em, and the elderly groom laughed and tried to dodge it, pretendin' he was afraid he'd get hurt and all that, makin' 'em laugh at his antics. When the train rolled out they hollered: "Goodby, pop! Look out that some young feller don't steal your bride away from you!" And he shouted back: "If he does I'll kill him!" We rolled out of the station, the laughin' and the shoutin' growin' fainter and fainter till it was left clear behind.

The old gentleman chatted a little while with his bride, and I saw him take her hand in his affectionately, although I couldn't say whether he took her hand or she took his. She looked up in his face lovingly, then snuggled down beside him.

But it wasn't long before the old chap took some papers out of his pocket and began to look 'em over. His poor wife turned and looked out of the window. I felt dreadful sorry for her, but I thought she deserved what she got for marryin' an old man.

In about an hour we reached a city where the train stopped, and a young fellow came into the train with a suit case. He went up to the old man and his bride and took off his hat politely. They were evidently acquainted. The old gentleman was very polite himself and gave the young one his seat, takin' another further forward. It wasn't long before it occurred to me that he'd better have taken a seat back of 'em. He'd scarcely left 'em before such goin' on I never did see before. The young man just set holdin' the bride's hand, but it wasn't long before he had his arm around her waist. Then, pretendin' she was tired, she lay her head on his shoulder.

What that old fool in front was throwin' temptation in the way of his girl wife for I couldn't see. It made my blood boil to look at 'em. The bride wore one o' these fashionable hats as big as an umbrella, and there wasn't the slightest reason why the young man beside her shouldn't kiss her under it without bein' seen. But every lady knew well enough what he was doin'.

I stood it just as long as I could; then, seein' that nobody was settin' with the husband, I got up and took a seat beside him. I did it when the train stopped at a station so it wouldn't be noticed.

"Fine day, sir," I said to the gentleman.

"Yes, madam, a very fine day," he answered.

"If you like we'll turn the seat over and ride backward."

"What for?"

"Well, it would give you a better view of what's goin' on between that young wife o' yours and the feller you give your seat to."

He turned square round and looked at me steady. "What they doin'?" he asked.

"He's kissin' her under that umbrella hat o' hers."

"You don't mean it?"

I was surprised that he took it so cool-like. "I thought I heard you say when you got on the train that if any young feller stole your bride away from you you'd kill him."

"Did I say that?"

"Yes, you did. There's no use denyin' it."

"Have you told me this, madam, to incite me to murder?"

"No; because I thought you ought to know what was goin' on between your young wife and that other feller."

"Thank you very much for the information. I am that young lady's father. She was married to that 'young feller' this morning. His mother, who is very ill, lives in the city where he boarded the train, and after the ceremony he went on for a brief visit with her. I arreeved to escort his wife and he to join us. I got off at this station, madam, and I bid you good day."

And, turnin' his back on me, he departed.

Some says I did wrong. I'd do the same thing a-zin.
